Data Notes:

- Data provided by CDC Lead Poisoning Prevention Program and state and local Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Programs.
- Measures should not be compared across states. Childhood blood lead testing practices vary. Some states require all children be tested while other states target high-risk children.
- Because data are not randomly sampled or representative of the population, number and percent of children tested with elevated blood lead levels cannot be interpreted as prevalence or incidence for the population.
- Elevated blood lead levels are confirmed by either one elevated venous test or two elevated capillary or unknown specimen tests less than 12 weeks apart.
- A birth cohort consists of all children born in a given year. This measure reports blood lead levels among those children within a birth cohort who were tested before 3 years of age.
- * Non-zero counts less than 6 and corresponding rates have been suppressed to protect confidentiality.
- Refer to the indicator documentation available in the Missouri EPHT Data and Statistical Guide located at http://health.mo.gov/living/environment/epht/index.php.
